Donald Trump says gold imports won't be tariffed in reprieve for market
President Donald Trump said Monday imports of gold will not face US tariffs, weighing in after a federal ruling caused chaos and confusion in global bullion markets. "Gold will not be Tariffed!" Trump posted on social media. Gold futures traded on New York's Comex and the global benchmark for spot prices in London were little-changed after Trump's post. Spot gold pared some losses, though it was still down more than 1.2 per cent on the day.

US to probe anti-dumping claims on Indian solar PV cell and module imports
The US Department of Commerce has initiated anti dumping and countervailing duty investigations on solar PV cell and module imports from India, Indonesia and Laos during calendar year 2024. The decision by the Commerce Department was made after the Alliance for American Solar Manufacturing and Trade filed a petition on July 17. The countervailing duty (CVD) petitions by the industry body is concerning imports of crystalline silicon photovoltaic (PV) cells, whether or not assembled into modules (solar cells) from India, Indonesia and Laos.

MSME bodies seek urgent liquidity, faster refunds to offset US tariff hit
Industry associations representing micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) have written to the Union ministries of finance and commerce seeking urgent intervention to cushion exporters from the impact of the recent tariff hikes by the United States. They warned that this move by the US is already compressing margins and threatening jobs in key sectors. Citing "immediate stress" on cash flows in clusters dependent on US buyers — including textiles, engineering goods and gems & jewellery — small and medium enterprise (SME) bodies said the higher duties have forced exporters to either absorb additional costs or lose orders.

Trump tariff turbulence: Tiruppur knitwear lifeline stretched thin
The clatter of knitting machines is the pulse of Tiruppur, each metallic click and hum carrying the livelihoods of nearly 1.2 million people, directly or indirectly tied to the textile and apparel trade. The faintly sweet scent of cotton in the air, sometimes replaced by the pungent tang from dyeing units, is as much a part of daily life as the morning tea.

Indian agriculture and dairy sectors are strong enough to withstand US tariff vagaries
India had for long protected its agriculture sector through high tariffs and been reluctant to reduce them in free trade agreements (FTAs). This, however, has changed in recent years. The country is now aggressively seeking market access for its agri-products like rice, shrimp, spices, tea and coffee through its trade agreements and, in return, is willing to open up agriculture and food products selectively to FTA partners.

Gherkin exporters seek duty reimbursement to tide over US tariff impact
Indian exporters of gherkins — small cucumbers pickled in brine — are reeling from a steep tariff hike imposed by the Trump administration. With the US being their largest market, exporters are urging the government to reimburse the duty to cushion the blow. “Exports of gherkins from India, which had slowed down when the 25 per cent tariff was imposed, have now stopped after it has been increased to 50 per cent. As gherkins are processed as per the specific requirement of each market, we request the government to reimburse the applicable duty for over the next four months till the shipments are made,” said Pradeep Pooviah, Vice-President, Indian Gherkin Exporters Association.

Tariff hike impact: Basmati exports to US drop 13% in Apr-July, set to hit further Basmati rice exports to the US dropped to about 78,000 tonnes during April-July of the current fiscal from over 90,000 tonnes a year ago, trade sources said. The drop in August may be even sharper from 22,730 tonnes a year ago after the imposition of additional tariffs by the Donald Trump administration earlier this month. It will be difficult for India to sustain the volumes as the duty is set to rise to 50 per cent after August 27 from the current 25 per cent. This benefits the sole competitor Pakistan which has only 19 per cent duty. Leading basmati exporters to the US include LT Foods and its group companies, Star Rice Land, Ebro India and R S Rice Mills.

China loosens urea exports to India in sign of thawing tensions
China has eased curbs on urea shipments to India, in the latest indication of a thaw in tensions between Beijing and New Delhi as US President Donald Trump’s trade policies target the two Asian nations. India, the world’s top importer of the crop nutrient, could take as much as 300,000 tons, according to people familiar with the matter. They asked not to be identified as they were not authorized to talk to the media. China is typically a major exporter of the nitrogen-based fertilizer, although it has restricted sales in recent years.

Higher MSP, import curbs help moong acreage surpass last year's level
Moong has become a standout crop in terms of acreage this kharif season compared to urad and tur or arhar, which, many traders said, could be correlated to the crop’s good procurement by state agencies, higher minimum support price (MSP), and also policies on imports. While areas under arhar and urad — the other major pulses grown during kharif season — are both trailing (as of August 1) compared to last year by 6.6 per cent and 2.1 per cent, respectively, acreage under moong is almost 3.2 per cent more than last year’s level.
