India bets on EFTA, UK FTAs to offset US tariff hit on marine exports Top government officials on Monday told a parliamentary panel that India’s marine exports are losing ground in the US market because of the 50 per cent tariffs imposed by Washington. However, they expressed confidence that free trade agreements (FTAs) with other countries and regions would offset some of these losses. Officials highlighted the trade agreement between India and the four-member European Free Trade Association (EFTA), to be launched on October 1, and the India–United Kingdom FTA, expected to be operationalised next year, as two deals that will cut tariffs and help diversify markets for India's marine exports.

Copper industry raises concerns over rising UAE imports under CEPA
The Indian Primary Copper Producers Association (IPCPA) has raised concerns over rising copper rod imports from the UAE under the India-UAE Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA), warning that the trend threatens domestic investments in copper refining. Since 1996, Indian producers - Hindustan Copper Ltd, Hindalco Industries, Vedanta Ltd, and Kutch Copper Ltd (Adani Group) - have built a domestic refined copper capacity of 1.25 million tonne, against a projected demand of 0.85 million tonne for FY25. The industry had plans to expand capacity further in the coming decade.

India's Russian oil imports ease in September amid US talks
India's oil imports from leading supplier Russia dipped in September, but held at about a third of overall shipments in spite of a US push to curb flows it says are helping to fund Moscow's war in Ukraine. Cargoes to the third-largest consumer totaled 1.61 million barrels a day in September, down from 1.72 million the month before, according to Kpler Ltd. Compared with a year ago, Russian flows are 16% lower — in line with a range that was flagged by people with knowledge of the matter in August.

India's basmati growers object to hike in export registration fees
Basmati exporters associations of Haryana, Punjab have objected to the hike in fees on registration of export contracts to ₹70/tonne from ₹30/tonne. If India maintains the same level of export in 2024-25, Apeda may collect over ₹31 crore towards the fund during 2025-26, an increase of 73 per cent from the year-ago, industry sources said. Though the fee hike looks small, exporters said it is neither a tax nor a cess. Hence, it escapes scrutiny on its utilisation. They cite the current instance of floods in Punjab where Basmati farmers faced problems of sand accumulating on the field after water receded. They said the Basmati Export Development Foundation (BEDF) fund should have been utilised there.

India's gold, silver imports nearly double despite record prices ahead of festivals, sources say
India's imports of gold and silver nearly doubled in September from August, defying record high prices, as banks and jewellers rushed to build inventories ahead of festivals and escape higher taxes on imports, trade and government sources said. Higher imports by India, the world's second-biggest consumer of the precious metal, are set to support gold prices that hit records this week, even as demand languishes in top buyer China.

India negotiates US corn purchase for ethanol production amid trade talks
India could buy corn from the US to produce ethanol, besides making higher purchases of energy, as part of fresh offers to arrive at a trade deal. New Delhi has pressed for removal of the 25% penal tariffs imposed on India for purchasing Russian oil that the US says is helping to fund the Ukraine war. “Fresh offers have been made… There is discussion to buy corn for ethanol production,” said an official. The latest move assumes significance as Washington has also been pushing India to buy American soyabean and corn, something New Delhi has resisted citing concerns over genetically modified (GM) varieties.

EU plans to double steel import tariffs to 50% and cut quota volumes
The European Union plans to hike tariffs on steel imports to 50% and cut by nearly a half the volume of steel that's allowed in before that higher rate is imposed, according to a draft proposal seen by Bloomberg. The EU currently has a temporary mechanism in place to safeguard its steel industry, which imposes a 25% duty on most imports once quotas are exhausted. That mechanism expires in June and the EU has been working to replace it with a more permanent regulation, which it plans to unveil next week.

Europe to launch first carbon import tax to curb emissions, stop leakage
The European Union (EU) is set to launch the carbon border adjustment mechanism (CBAM) in the next three months, a border tax on carbon-intensive imports. Starting January 1, 2026, the policy will apply to goods such as steel, cement, fertilisers, aluminium, and hydrogen imported into the 27-nation bloc, CNBC reported. The CBAM aims to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, encourage cleaner production globally and prevent "carbon leakage", where companies move production to countries with weaker climate rules.

EU, Japan escape Trump's 100% tariffs on pharmaceuticals because of existing trade pacts
President Donald Trump's sweeping new tariffs on pharmaceutical imports will spare countries that already have drug provisions in trade agreements with the United States, a White House official confirmed Friday, offering relief to the European Union and Japan, according to Bloomberg. Under the terms of its framework deal, duties on EU pharmaceuticals will be capped at 15%, the official said. Japanese drugs will be subject to the rate agreed in its pact, with a joint U.S.-Japan statement clarifying that tariffs on Japanese drugs and semiconductors would not exceed those applied to other partners, including the EU.
