Parl panel for early conclusion of India-US trade pact, tariff exemptions on key goods
India should conclude the proposed Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA) with the US at the earliest while ensuring that its interests are adequately protected, the Standing Committee on Commerce said Thursday, while recommending a review of the India-US trade relations in the interest of the country and its citizens as far as the US tariff hike is concerned. It said that to ensure that the agreement is effective, the government should negotiate for complete exemption for India's key export products such as generic medicines, critical minerals and smartphones from any future unexpected US tariff increases.
