Trade Updates

India's trade deficit eases to 5-month low in Aug on robust export growth
India's trade deficit eased to a five-month low of $26.86 billion in August from $27.22 billion a year ago and $32 billion recorded in July, data released by the Department of Commerce showed on Tuesday. The trade deficit eased due to a sharp spike in goods exports, which rose at the fastest pace since June 2022. The value of outbound shipments jumped 26 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) to $43.81 billion in the month, while imports rose 14 per cent Y-o-Y to $70.67 billion.

Free Trade Agreements

New Zealand parliament passes 'once-in-a-generation' India trade deal, cutting tariffs on most exports
New Zealand's parliament on Wednesday passed legislation to implement a free trade agreement with India, under which tariffs on about 95% of New Zealand exports to India would be eliminated or significantly reduced. The legislation passed by a vote of 93-29, with support from the opposition Labour Party. More than half of all products covered would become duty-free from the day it takes effect.

India proposes 8 guardrails in softening of stance on plurilateral pacts at WTO

In a softening of stance on plurilateral agreements at the World Trade Organization (WTO), India has suggested eight safeguards such as preserving consensus-based decision making, multilateral charter of the trade watchdog, rights and agency of non-participants, and maintaining development including special and differential treatment. In a submission on guidelines on plurilateral initiatives, India said these “can provide greater predictability to proponents, enable non-participants to understand and protect their rights and interests; preserve attention to existing mandates and support confidence in the WTO as a Member-driven, inclusive and development-oriented multilateral institution”.

Trade fragmentation could hit poor economies much harder than rich ones, WTO warns

The world’s poorest economies could pay the heaviest price if global trade fractures into geopolitical blocs, with the economic damage from a breakdown in multilateral cooperation falling several times harder on them than on rich countries, according to a new World Trade Organization report. The WTO’s modelling puts a stark number on that divide. In its “Geo-fragmented world” scenario, where geopolitical alignment determines trade relationships, real GDP in least-developed countries (LDCs) is projected to fall 10.6% by 2050, compared with a 7.3% decline for middle-income economies and 2.9% for high-income economies.
