India soyoil imports to rise to record high on price competitiveness
India's soyoil imports are likely to surge to a record high in the 2025/26 marketing year as rallies in rival palm and sunflower oils make soyoil more competitive for price-sensitive Indian buyers, industry officials told Reuters. Higher soyoil imports would offset a decline in sunflower oil shipments due to the Russia-Ukraine war and limit purchases of palm oil, which typically accounts for the bulk of India's edible oil imports, they said.

Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala on India's FTAs, WTO reform, and why the status quo isn't an option
In this rapid-fire ET Digital conversation from Geneva, WTO Director-General Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala addresses India's recent FTAs with the EU and UK, explaining why the WTO views bilateral and regional deals as tools for diversification rather than threats to the multilateral system. She discusses India's eighth Trade Policy Review, its balancing act between multilateralism and fast-moving bilateral instruments, and closes with a candid, rapid-fire answer on WTO reform — declining to name one priority and instead naming all four the membership has identified: decision-making, development, level playing field, and fundamental principles.

EU waste proposal would ban India from importing bloc's metal scrap India will be among the countries barred from importing EU metal waste, including aluminium scrap, under a new law due to take effect in May 2027, according to a European Commission proposal setting out exemptions for non-OECD countries. The Commission published the proposal on Friday, confirming an earlier Reuters report, and opened a public consultation on the exemptions list until October 16. The move comes after the Commission earlier this month ditched a plan to impose a 15% export duty on aluminium scrap following pressure from the biggest buyer - India. Disagreements among EU officials diluted the trade proposal by exempting India, significantly reducing its impact.

The Lindsey O.
