Trade deal signing after US finalises tariff architecture: Commerce secy
Negotiations for the first tranche of the India-United States (US) trade deal are nearing conclusion, although signing will depend on Washington finalising a new tariff architecture and providing clarity on the ongoing trade probes, Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agrawal said on Wednesday. "There are certain Section 301 investigations that are already underway and that will be out in a few weeks or months. Any country would like to have a deal which gives them certainty around all the investigations that are going on. You cannot have a deal till there are uncertainties around multiple investigations that are going on," Agrawal said at the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI) annual general meeting here.
